

COME TO THE LIGHT AND SEE

The embers died as another night fell on a shepherd's field
The stillness of time on forgotten lives, now chosen by God, and all is revealed
In a shout, in a flash, all His heavenly host exploded in light and praise
And an angel said, "Peace! Don't be afraid. A savior is born today!"

The sky returned to a starry night above that shepherds' field
But the embers now burned with newfound flames like the shepherds' hearts burned with joy unconcealed
"Let us go right now down into Bethlehem, to see this thing the Lord has done!"
And they found the babe in a manger and cried, "The light of the world is born

So come to the light and see, the one who was born, born to be Savior and Lord, Light of the World, Immanuel
Come to the light and find, open your eyes no longer blind
Darkness is gone, Messiah has come, and all will be well
So come to the light and see; come to the light and see
Come to the light... so you can see...
So you can see... so you can...

See the light of Jesus' face, see his love, see his grace
See the joy and see the peace, see the promise of release
From dark, despair, and every fear, to see the God who knows you're here
See the hope of heaven's light, forgiveness and eternal life
You'll see... you'll see...

So come to the light and find, open your eyes no longer blind
Darkness is gone, Messiah has come, and all will be well
So come to the light and see; come to the light and see
Come to the light... so you can see... so you can see...
So you can see... so you can see
